CHAMBERLAIN MAY RESIGN

Changes in Cabinet Anticipated as Result of Criticism on Norwegian Expedition--Coalition Government is Rumored Likely to Be Formed--Intense Public Interest

Contrary to forecasts by government critics and powerful newspaper editorials that he would resign his seals of office within the next few days, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain seems determined to continue at the head of the British war-time government. He survived another barrage of criticism to-day and won a brief respite when he successfully sponsored a motion to have the house adjourn till May 21. During this interval it is expected he will have a complete cabinet re-organization, removing several members whose presence in the cabinet is objected to by many of the opposition.

King George to-day signed papers calling to the colors two and a half million men between the ages of 18 to 37 years, and also to give wide powers to crush "Fifth Column" elements in the United Kingdom.

The Labor party, which has an important convention at Bournemouth on Monday, may revoke certain clauses in its organization which at present forbid members taking responsible positions in the government's war effort. It still, however makes sharp criticism of cabinet ministers Sir Samuel Haare and Sir John Simon, and their continued presence in the cabinet may shape future Labor policies.

Disappointment over the Norwegian situation has brought the Government into sharp criticism and has created uncertainty as to its continuance in office.

The accompanying photo, taken of Premier Chamberlain last September, shows him carrying his gas mask. Over 70 years of age, he has carried a heavy load of responsibility during his years as prime minister. He is a son of the famous Joseph Chamberlain, who was a power in British politics in the early part of the 19th century.

Parents and children are asked to sit together. A special order of service will be used, and flowers will be available for the mothers and grandmothers present. Those coming should be in good time, as extra seating usually is needed for this service. A warm invitation is extended to all who care to attend this Mother's Day service. There will be the regular service in the evening.

There are still a number of anniversary thank-offering envelopes that have not been returned. These should be turned in as soon as possible.

On Sunday next a Mother's Day message will be given in the morning, and in the evening Rev. D. Swart, district superintendent of work in Alberta, will address the people.

Crescent Lodge, L.O.B.A., No. 599, held their regular monthly meeting in the I.O.O.F. hall on Wednesday, May 1. The usual anniversary supper followed, attended by many of the members and their friends. The prizes for whist were won by Sisters Cora Glendinning, Mary McQuarrie and Elizabeth Dunlop. Arrangements were attended to by Sisters Mary Ferguson and Mary McKinnon.

Council Ponders Many Problems

Curfew Law is Suggested; Bowling Greens May Replace Two of the Tennis Courts.

A regular meeting of council was held on Tuesday evening. Present: Mayor D'Appollonia, Councillors Atkinson, Balloch, Ford and Gentile. By-law 148, re sale of lot owned by Norman MacAulay on Park Terrace, was given second reading and will now be forwarded to department of municipal affairs for the minister's approval.

Dr. C. Rose reported five cases of chicken pox in town. Dr. Claxton asked council for a medical aid fee for services rendered Mrs. Vollendorf and child while they were charges of the town. The matter will be investigated.

A favorable report was received from the provincial government laboratories on a recent sample of drinking water sent them by civic authorities.

A letter was received from the George Pattinson Hardware, quoting prices and discounts on General Electric lamps suitable for town lighting purposes.

Modern Electric submitted a price list on lamps, as requested by council at its last meeting. This store was awarded a year's contract to supply the town's need in light bulbs.

H. Parkinson and D. Oliva, residents of Sixth street, asked that small wooden bridges be placed in front of their residences to allow cars and trucks to gain entrance into their yards. The matter was left in the hands of Councillors Atkinson and Balloch.

The Misses Margaret and Ethel Dunlop, owners of a summer cottage at Crow's Nest Lake, made reply to a recent letter sent them by council. Robert Borden, in a letter, stated that owing to lack of furnishings in the open-air rink shack, he had been obliged to seek lodgings elsewhere.

Joe Kwanie asked council's permission to work off tax arrears on his property on town work projects. Constable Antle was authorized to investigate case.

Mrs. J. Lochrie asked reason for delay in granting her relief. Council received Constable Antle's report and placed her on three-way relief.

John Nikituk, town works foreman, will in future pay his own chauffeur's license.

The lot in the south-east corner of Block D, in West Coleman, is being sought after by three parties. Council will ask $175 for the lot, in addition to the following conditions: That a home be built on the lot, that owner is fully aware of the ground structure in that area and takes full responsibility for damage which may result at a future date due to the ground sinking, and also to agree to install an inside water toilet. Offer will be made to the parties in the order in which their letters were received, i.e., J. Shotas, S. Leocky and S. Peknik.

A notice of motion was made to amend the existing by-law re Milk Peddlers' licenses. Equipment donated by the town to the Youth Training Group will be through the town of Coleman.

Why the Flay Flies!

The Journal hoisted a Union Jack to-day on its new flagpole. Many questions were asked as to the reason. It was not to celebrate a birthday. The significance of the flag as an emblem of Empire Unity is too often overlooked. The significance of the Union Jack cannot be too strongly impressed on the young mind.

loaned to the high school during the summer.

Mayor D'Appollonia reported he had been approached by a number of ratepayers to sponsor a curfew law for Coleman. It was decided to discuss the matter at a full meeting of the council.

An advertisement was authorized to be placed in The Journal, advising ratepayers that payment on 1940 taxes can be made now, and 10 per cent discount will be given on all payments.

Much discussion took place on sports projects. Regarding the ball field, it was estimated by Mayor D'Appollonia that 1800 cubic yards of soil would be necessary to cover it. He thought two weeks would still be required before a certain area would be filled in with material at present being supplied by Hintonville Coal & Coke Co. Councillor Atkinson sponsored a move for the construction of a bowling green on the two tennis courts not being used at the present time. A blue print, prepared by Joe D'Appollonia, gave council an idea of the work involved. To grade, level, plant seed, etc., it was estimated $400 would be required. Councillor Atkinson will approach the tennis club to make final arrangements for the two courts. Due to the hazardous nature of the present road leading to the ball field, it was suggested by Councillor Balloch that council survey a road leading through the tourist park and if it would not cost too much to grade, a road should be made.

Council consented to survey 44 three projects on Wednesday evening. In the meantime tenders are being asked on all three projects, plans and specifications being available at the town office. Only local contractors are eligible for the work.

The first town works project is practically completed in West Coleman, and it was decided to commence work on the drainage system on Fourth street.

A letter will be sent to E. O. Duke, M.L.A., asking him to use his influence in securing for the Town of Coleman payment for material used by the town on the Main street, which is also a main highway. A letter will also be sent the Hon. Mr. Fallow, minister of public works, that the provincial government owes to town 3,375 gallons of asphalt, being equal to the amount used by the town in surfacing the main highway running through the town of Coleman.

BELLEVUE'S ANNUAL CELEBRATION HAS SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE

The sixth annual Victoria-May Day celebration to be held at Bellevue on May 24 has special significance in view of wartime conditions. It helps to remind people of earlier days during the reign of Victoria the Good, and of the changes that have taken place in the line-up of European countries since she passed from the scene. It is also of importance to review the fact that the funds raised from the celebration are devoted towards church improvement in Bellevue, and credit is largely due to Rev. and Mrs. Upton, who have been most active in community enterprise. They will soon be leaving Bellevue after six years in charge of the church, and they have a record of real service to their credit.

BOARDS OF TRADE TO MEET

The 40th annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia will be held in Fernie on May 27 and 28, and if there are any members of Coleman Board of Trade who would care to attend, their names should be left with H. T. Halliwell, president of Coleman B. of T., or W. L. Rippon, secretary.

FORBES-McDONALD WEDDING

A wedding of local interest was that of Mr. Albert Forbes, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Forbes, of Calgary, to Miss Pearl McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. McDonald, of Coleman, on Saturday, May 4, at 7 p.m., at the residence of Rev. Dr. W. F. Kelloway, Calgary, assisted by

Rev. Dr. McKinnon, of Central United

The bridesmaid was Miss Jean McDonald, sister of the bride, and the groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Jack Forbes. Only the immediate relatives were present at the ceremony, following which a wedding supper was served at the Empress hotel, where in addition to relatives, a number of intimate friends of both parties were present.

The bridegroom is a member of the firm of Renfrew Motors, and the bride is well known locally, having attended high school in Bellevue, later attending business college in Calgary, where she has lived for over three years. They spent a few days here with the bride's parents, and left today for Calgary, where they will live. The good wishes of many friends in the Crow's Nest Pass are extended to them.

WAGE FOR MINERS IN ALBERTA BASED ON LIVING COSTS

Drumheller, Alberta. — A wage agreement based on the official Dominion government cost of living index, believed to be the first of the kind in Canada, was in effect April 29 between steam and domestic coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America, District 18.

The agreement whereby wage adjustments for the duration of the war and for a year afterward will be made on the basis of the cost of living was announced over the week end. Under the agreement, the cost of living as at March 31, 1938, has been accepted as the basis upon which future adjustments shall be made. Adjustments will be made every six months, and wage increases or decreases will be awarded should cost of living fluctuate 5 per cent or more during each period.—Christian Science Monitor.

All over this continent, as well as in her native France and throughout Europe, devotees to the "Little Flower" are regularly attended by Roman Catholics who attribute numerous cures and benefits to this Saint's intercession.

GROWN IN SUNNY SOUTHERN ONTARIO

Opportunities In Trees

Considered solely from the economic viewpoint it is satisfactory to note that the federal government has evidently decided that the annual summer expeditions of the forestry association's tree planting train are not to be sacrificed to the exigencies of war.

By the time this appears in print the train will already be perambulating through those portions of the prairie provinces which have found a place in this season's itinerary and from its cars crowds of prairie folk are learning, orally and visually, the immense value of a tree in the economic and aesthetic life of the country.

Contrary to what might have been expected, the past decade of drought and depression has given a marked impetus to the work of tree planting on the open prairies and the necessity of conservation of trees in the forested portions of the west has brought home to thousands of western residents as a result of the continued mislaid of the forestry association's train.

During this ten year period of trial and tribulation, farmers and others have learned by bitter experience that the absence of trees has spelled soil erosion and that soil erosion plus drought has brought dust storms wreaking at least temporary destruction to large tracts of arable areas in the southern portions of the prairie provinces. In the park belted and treed areas of the northern parts of these provinces, people have been keenly aware of what has been happening in the southern districts and have undoubtedly been impressed with the necessity of conserving their protective device—the trees.

It is not surprising, therefore, to find that during the depression, interest in tree planting and conservation of forests has deepened materially and that this augmented interest has found expression in record attendance at the lectures brought to their doors by the tree planting train and by increased demands on the facilities of the Dominion forestry farms for trees and shrubs.

Wider Outlets Offered

A further stimulus to the growing interest in tree planting and arboreal conservation has been the passing of the past three or four years by the activities of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation organization who are promoting the growth and cultivation of trees as one of the activities essential to the retention and use of all available moisture.

Instead of the war acting as a deterrent upon this important and highly necessary undertaking it should serve as a major factor in giving an additional impetus to programs of tree planting and forest conservation on the part of the individual, the community and the governments of the country, for it would appear that trees may be destined to play an even more important role in our economy than heretofore, as a result of the conflagration in Europe.

One of the immediate effects of the war in prospect is a very substantial increase in tourist traffic from the United States. It can be taken for granted that these prospective visitors will not only look for good roads and courtesies but they will search for attractive scenery and, that means, in addition to fields of golden grain and neat farmsteads, that means, in the trees. If they do not find this greatest of assets to a holiday-maker, they may be expected to move on to some other section of the country which has something more tempting to offer them and which will reap the benefit of the money they have to spend.

It appears also as if the war may open a new vista of wealth to be derived from the forests of this country. Even before Norway had been invaded by Hitler's troops Roland D. Craig, chief economist of the Dominion forest service at Ottawa announced at the annual convention of the Canadian Society of Forestry Engineers that new markets will be opened to Canadian wood because the Baltic countries and eastern European timber producers have been practically shut off from world trade routes.

"The United Kingdom," said Mr. Craig, "will be dependent largely upon Canada for her entire wood requirements, particularly for military uses, and the United States, a heavy importer of wood pulp from the Baltic and from Europe will probably turn to Canada for a greatly increased supply of that forest product."

A Permanent Crop

So that in more than one direction the war is opening up opportunities to augment existing industries and to create new ones in which forest resources and trees play an important role if advantage is taken of these opportunities, but to make the most of the situation it is necessary that more trees be planted on the open prairies in the south and in the north the forest resources must be carefully managed so that the industry may continue to be profitable for all time.

An Arthur A. Schmon, president of the Canadian Forestry Association, said at the convention already referred to: "Forest resources must be recognized by every Canadian household as a national pride and as a bulwark of our common well being. We want them accepted as the one permanent crop to be kept growing on nearly a third of our habitable area."

Burlap In Great Demand

Needed In Large Quantities For Sandbags During Wartime

The commodity whose price is perhaps most sensitive of all during wartime is not copper, nor steel, but ordinary burlap. Burlap is needed in enormous quantities for sandbags, and its price since last September has varied from six cents to 11 cents per yard. The British government has had to buy 500,000,000 yards, and a world shortage is increasing the use of cotton sacking and paper bags for commercial packaging.

Only Favored Customer Can Now Buy Potatoes In Berlin

Because of the "severe winter" the German Government has announced that henceforth potatoes can be bought in Berlin only if the customer has been specially registered. It was announced also that after registry in the special customers list the buyer would be able to purchase potatoes only on two non-consecutive days of the week and that the quantity bought would be limited by the supply on hand.

Friendliness Out

Anyone who has known the freedom, the kindness, the justice, the civilized decency of the Scandinavian countries must be saddened by this spectacle. But everyone watching it must be newly aware that the question of whether right or left is to rule in the world is no local issue and that there is no room for genuine friendliness in totalitarianism—Christian Science Monitor.

It cannot be overlooked that the German people will fight a long time if the light is kept in some other country.

The Magnetic Mine

How Britain Was Able To Deal With This Menace To Shipping (By a Naval Correspondent)

Magnetic mines are laid on the sea bottom, and are only effective if ships passing over them are influenced by the danger area of the explosion. They are useless in depths of 300 feet or more, and are thus complementary to the ordinary moored mines floating beneath the surface and designed to fire on a ship striking them. The development and laying of magnetic mines forced Britain to provide special methods of clearance over and above the ordinary sweeping of moored mines.

An regards the antidote, much has recently been heard of "de-gaussing" belts fitted to ships of all types from trawlers to battleships, for the purpose of neutralizing their magnetism and so rendering them immune from magnetic mines. Dr. Gauss, one of the great scientists of the nineteenth century, was a Scandinavian professor who died in the middle of the 18th century; but gave his name to the unit of magnetic flux, just as the names of Ohm and Ampere are now used in the technical language of electricity.

The "de-gaussing" belt or girdle, or "D.G." equipment, as it is now called, consists of a number of strands of ordinary insulated cable passing round the ship about the level of the upper deck, and energized in a special way by an electrical current. It neutralizes the permanent magnetism of the vessel, so that she is able to pass over a magnetic mine without deflecting the needle and firing the charge.

Total immunity against mines, magnetic or otherwise, can never be guaranteed. However, no ship fitted with the new gear has yet been damaged, while an officer responsible for its development expressed himself as being prepared to take a "de-gaussing" ship over any number of magnetic mines.

It should be added that the apparatus which was suggested by the officers of one of His Majesty's Naval Establishments, with the able advice and assistance of civilian scientists, was developed in less than three months from the time the need for it became apparent.

Supplies Cut Off

Clothespins Are Scarce In England On Account Of War

It's a "forever" war for the British housewife, who wants to keep the washing on the home front line but cannot because there's a scarcity of clothespins.

Apart from the few made by egyptians, they never were manufactured in England on a large scale. Before the war 192,000,000 pins were imported annually, mainly from Germany.

As if the pin question and planning family meals under rationing were not enough, isolated reports are at hand about makers of mouse traps experiencing a scarcity of wire. The trap-makers at Leeds face this difficulty due to the use of wire in making anti-magnetic mine apparatus.

Clothespins have been so scarce in many districts that women introduced "staggered" washing days and others used safety pins. To meet the difficulty a firm of spring manufacturers plans turning out 5,000,000 spring pins a week. Due to labor costs, they may have to be sold at about sixpence (11c) a dozen compared with the old price of 12 wooden pins for a penny.

Made Slight Mistake

Auctioneer Got His Addresses Mixed And Sold Wrong House

While Mr. and Mrs. Norman Goodwin, of Quincey, Mass., were away from home on a brief vacation, an auctioneer of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation put up a red flag on one piazza and within a half hour sold their house and two-car garage to the highest bidder.

The Goodwins have owned their home for 16 years. The auctioneer had made a mistake in the address and should have auctioned the house next door.

According To Old Legend

The origin of tea is credited to a legendary Buddhist named Bodhidharma, who in the midst of a nine-year penance without sleep started to doze. To punish himself he plucked out his eyebrows and threw them on the ground. From these sprouted the tea plant, and by eating the leaves of it he managed to keep awake for the duration of the penance.

Matches first were sold under the name of "Lucifers."

New Wireless School

Established Under Air Training Plan At University Of Manitoba

Establishment of a wireless school of the British commonwealth air training plan in buildings of the University of Manitoba at Winnipeg was announced by Hon. C. G. Power, acting minister of national defence.

Mr. Power expressed appreciation of the "patriotic attitude of the president of the university, Sidney E. Smith; the chairman of the board of governors, Mr. Justice Dwyer, and other members of the board in placing such facilities at the disposal of the Royal Canadian Air Force for the duration of the war."

The school will be the second of four wireless schools, projected under the plan which provides for the training of pilots, air gunners and air observers for the British, Australian, New Zealand and Canadian air forces.

Another school now is operating in Montreal and the Winnipeg establishment will be along similar lines except that it will concentrate on the training of air crews while at Montreal signals officers, ground operators and wireless and electrical mechanics required under the plan will receive their training.

The Winnipeg school will provide accommodation for the training of more than 1,000 airmen as wireless operators.

The students' residence at the university which now accommodates 450 students and staff members and has a restaurant capable of serving 1,000 people will form the nucleus of the school. Other buildings will be used for instructional purposes and additional buildings for class rooms will be erected on adjacent property.

Will Survey Housing

Next Census Expected To Include General Living Conditions Quiz

A survey of housing in Canada will be made in connection with the 1941 census, according to plans already prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics but subject to final approval by the Government.

The census takers will ask Canadians about the types of houses they live in, the type of sanitation and the type of heating system. They will inquire whether houses have bathrooms and refrigeration and what kind of fuel is used. Questions also are set down on the preliminary census form relating to the number of rooms in the house, the type of construction and the rent paid.

Only the other day the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards convention in London approved a resolution asking the Federal Government to obtain information on property and housing conditions during the 1941 census taking.

FATHER: Stop that infernal racket! How do you expect me to work all day and come home and listen to that! My nerves can't stand it!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: Bravo! That child needs to be curbed!

MOTHER: One of the club girls claims that too much tea and coffee can make people nervous and out of sorts. Maybe it isn't Junior at all. Let's try drinking only Postum for awhile and see!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: To hear her you'd think you lived on tea and coffee!

Whispering Gallery In Italy Is Shaped Like Human Ear

The "Ear of Dionysius," one of the most curious and perfect whispering galleries in the world, is located in the ancient city of Syracuse, Italy. Formed more than 5,000 years ago when Greek slaves accidentally quarried out rock from a limestone cliff in the form of a human ear, the gallery is 50 feet high and extends into —a cliff for 200 feet. Its acoustics are so perfect that the sound of paper being torn is carried back perfectly by the echo. It is named for the Emperor Dionysius, who used it for a prison and had a small room built at the top where he could sit and listen to what his prisoners were whispering about.

At a speed of 62 miles an hour, an automobile uses about 60 per cent. of its power in overcoming air resistance.

New Airplane Device

Bombay Engineer Evolves System For Reducing Landing Speed

Aeronautical research engineer for the Indian government, Parasuram N. Nair, conferred with officials of the British commonwealth air training plan in regard to a device to decrease the landing speed of fast aircraft.

The 32-year-old Bombay engineer described his device as a cut slot and flap in the trailing edge of an aircraft wing. Its function would be to act as an air brake when lowered into position for a landing. Similarly, the flap would give increased lifting power for aircraft taking off from confined areas.

The Indian government has financed development and patent costs of the device.

It is possible for an airplane to make a safe landing with only one propeller.

Largest Allied Fleet Yet Assembled Is In The Mediterranean

Alexandria, Egypt. — Backed by thousands of Allied troops and the largest Allied fleet yet assembled in the Mediterranean, Egypt declared her readiness to fight against attack from any quarter and order the first country-wide blackout in the historic land of the Pharaohs.

Egypt's highest defence council began daily sessions as reports were received that Italian warships and thousands of troops were being concentrated in the Dodecanese islands, about 400 miles northwest of this port across the Mediterranean.

Allied troops about 60,000 British soldiers are said by neutrals to be in Egypt alone, should need to board transports and their commanders examined reports that Italy has landed 55,000 soldiers in the Dodecanese islands.

The Allies are reported rushing naval reinforcements to strengthen the huge fleet in Alexandria harbor. Count Serafino Mareschini, Italian minister to Egypt, told Egypt's Italian colony of 60,000 not to believe that Italy intended to attack any of her neighbors.

He said they could send their children to Italy as usual this year for youth organization exercises without any fears for their safety.

The count urged the colony, composed mainly of workers, to keep calm and to stay on their jobs.

The Egyptian national defence ministry issued instructions for one-week blackout. All public buildings already are under guard.

Egypt's minister of national defence, Mohamed Saleh Harb Pasha, in a statement declared Egypt never would be taken by surprise.

"Military preparations for the defence of the country have reached a maximum point of perfection," he said.

"There is no need of saying we do not want to attack anybody but we are prepared to repulse any attack no matter from what or where it comes. We are vigilant and ready."

On land, the Allied situation was reported to be shaping up as follows:

1. Foreign observers reported that carefully-checked figures in February indicated the British and French troops in the Near East total at least 570,000 men.

2. Turkey, which has a mutual aid pact with the Allies to fight with them in the event war comes to the Balkans or the Near East, was estimated early in March to have 560,000 men under arms.

3. Egypt has an army of 20,000 men. Also, she is obligated under the treaty of 1936 with Britain, to furnish British facilities and assistance on Egyptian soil in wartime.

British Merchant Ships Ordered To Return Home Via Suez Canal

Genoa, Italy. — British merchant ships in Italian ports were ordered to sail with all possible speed for Great Britain by way of the Suez canal, avoiding Gibraltar. It was believed the urgent instructions were transmitted to all British merchantmen in the Mediterranean.

Ships anchored at the crowded port of Genoa were the first to receive the order. Four British vessels were here at the time. One sailed at once and the others prepared to follow.

The order, coming on the heels of an order one day earlier that all British shipping avoid the Mediterranean by rounding the tip of Africa, reflected increasing international tension.

Concurrently British and French naval forces were concentrating in the eastern Mediterranean.

There was no immediate explanation for routing the ships homeward by the much longer way of Suez instead of through the Straits of British-fortified Gibraltar.

Nor was there any apparent change in Italy's professed attitude of indifference toward the British preparations.

The Dutch destroyer Van Galen received orders from Netherlands authorities to proceed immediately to Dutch territorial waters, and sailed.

The first British ship sailing was the Llandover Castle with 150 passengers destined for Durban, South Africa.

The route the British ships would have to take through the Suez canal and then around Africa past Cape Town to Southampton, is approximately 15,128 miles. The route via Gibraltar to Southampton is about 2,000 miles.

German Sabotage

Several Attempts Made To Cause Damage In Canada

Toronto. — An attempt to tamper with a mine hoist in a northern Ontario mine was averted by Fire Marshal W. J. Scott in discussing sabotage attempts by German agents in Canada. Had this plot been successful a score of men would have been killed, he said.

Scott told the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association of a number of incidents within 50 miles of Toronto, but said the only large-scale plot of sabotage in this war was an attempt in British Columbia to damage the Consolidated Smelters plant at Trail, one of the nation's most important war-time industries.

He claimed this plot was directly linked to a German consul at Seattle recalling charges in the first Great War of how plots against Canadian industry were hatched in the German embassy at Washington. These included attempts to dynamite an international bridge between Maine and Canada; to bomb a factory in Windsor, Ont., which made military clothing; and to blow up the Canadian Pacific Railway tunnel at Revelstoke, B.C.

"The saboteur is infinitely ingenious and he is furnished with the finest scientific and technical equipment by his foreign employers. We can fight back at him only by constant vigilance and the use of as high a degree of technical skill and fine instruments as he himself uses."

End Gasoline War

Drouth Reached When Settlement Reached By Fuel Board

Victoria.—British Columbia's week-long gasoline "drouth" ended with Premier T. D. Pattullo announcing a settlement had been reached between the provincial fuel board and the province's oil industry.

Supplies will start moving to service stations immediately, the premier said as he disclosed the wholesale gasoline prices one cent a gallon instead of three cents.

One price spread allowed retailers will be limited to four cents instead of five, making the cost of standard gasoline in Vancouver 25 cents a gallon, including a seven-cent a gallon provincial tax. The motor fuel previously sold as high as 27 cents a gallon, although many retailers on their own initiative cut prices to 25 cents a gallon before the three-cent price reduction went into effect. Under the new order, however, retailers will not be permitted to sell at a spread of less than four cents a gallon.

Prices in other parts of the province will vary according to the cost of transportation from the distributing centre at Vancouver, where the new wholesale price will be 21 cents a gallon instead of 22 cents, including the provincial road tax.

Roumanian Capital

Bucharest.—A German "espionage centre" was raided in the basement of a building in the heart of the Roumanian capital near the royal palace.

A wireless sending and receiving outfit was confiscated and many German and Polish refugees arrested.

Following the raid it was learned unofficially that wholesale expulsion of a great number of Polish refugees would begin.

BRITAIN CORNERED BACON

Speaking at Melville, Saskatchewan, the Hon. James G. Gardiner, Canadian Minister of Agriculture, told a service club that Britain knew beforehand of the threat to Denmark and had forestalled any German gain by buying and shipping to Britain every bit of Danish bacon available before the Nazis marched.

Sir John Simon Draws Lessons From First Stages Of War

London.—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, said in a speech here that the public eventually will see that the government's moves in Norway were for the best, and added it would be futile for anyone to attempt to pin the responsibility for Scandinavian difficulties on any one minister.

Germany had forged a powerful war machine "organized and prepared to the last possible degree," which has demonstrated its striking power in trampling neutral neighbors of the reich. Sir John said in an address at a National Liberal meeting.

Stressing that Britain was compelled to go to war by menace of Hitlerism, Sir John went on: "I may take us some time to realize the full danger, but recent proceedings in Germany have been such as to call into battle from the other side of the world Canadians, South Africans, Australians and New Zealanders to stand beside their mother country in the bitter and costly conflict."

Warning that what happened to other nations might happen to Britain if it did not use its utmost strength to defend itself, he said: "That is why we, who have been brought up in the Liberal faith, who hate cruelty and the waste of war, who deplore that national wealth should be squandered in meeting its frightful expense when there is so much left to be done to improve the human lot under conditions of peace, declare that no sacrifice is too great to destroy this great threat to liberty and that whatever betide we will endure and persist until the day of victory dawns."

The general feeling of the country, he declared, would "entirely support" the prime minister's determination to reveal nothing that might help the enemy.

"We have the situation in hand and the government is well prepared, at the first moment it is right to do so, to explain this whole situation frankly and fully to the British people, to whom they are responsible. You may dismiss from your minds the idea that this is going to be material for some exciting political controversy or combat."

"The British people are never likely to be cowed or frightened by facing serious facts. I am inviting you to face the facts as they are, fearlessly and plainly, and that is the only way in which the British people wish to deal with things."

"If we reflect upon the war during the last eight months we may readily find three lessons: "Firstly, the enormous power of this instrument of war which Germany has been engaged in building up and perfecting over recent years and the remorseless skill with which it is used to trample down and reduce to subjection Germany's neighbors."

"Secondly, the strength of the German army, which has not yet found occasion to try its strength on level terms with the land forces of a great power, but the pace and precision with which it has advanced in Czechoslovakia, Poland and Denmark, and in part of Norway are remarkable proofs of its high organization and its power of thrust. It has never been a British shortcoming to belittle the quality of the enemy, and certainly the very first thing we should recognize is this most formidable exhibition of German strength."

"At the same time we may note that Hitler's Scandinavian adventure has led to such serious losses in the German navy that as the prime minister said, 'Whereas the strength of the royal navy has been little if at all affected, the injuries to the German navy have been so substantial as to alter the entire balance of naval power and to permit an important redistribution of the main Allied fleet.'"

"Nevertheless, the first conclusion to be drawn from the first eight months of war before any major crucial contest has been entered upon is that we have to meet and overthrow an opponent of enormous strength, organized and prepared to the last possible degree for the struggle."

"The second point is the unparalleled unity and determination with which the British people and the British Commonwealth are meeting this challenge. This unity is not enforced and machine-made uniformly to the dragging of public opinion by the methods of Goebbels or the gestapo. It is the spontaneous and inevitable response of democratic communities who value liberty above every other earthly thing."

"The third point is the true character of the issue for which war is being fought. This is a conflict in defence of ordinary human liberties, ordinary common rights which free peoples know are threatened."

Mobilization Order

Effective Methods Used In Ethiopia When Country Invaded

Washington.—When General R. Stark, chief of United States naval operations, gave the United States Chamber of Commerce an example of a "streamlined mobilization order," it was issued by Ethiopia when Italy invaded the country and read:

"When this order is received all men and all boys able to carry a spear will go to Addis Ababa. Every married man will bring his wife to cook and wash for him. Women with babies, the blind, and those too aged or infirm to carry a spear are excused. Anyone found at home after receiving his order will be hanged."

"I would call it very simple and effective," Admiral Stark remarked.

Allies Intend To Block Any Enemy Advance To Port Of Narvik

London.—The Allies have abandoned southern Norway to the grey-clad armies of General Nikolaus Von Falkenhorn because of the "long-term strategy which will win the war."

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons in a pre-emptive accounting of the first phase of the Norwegian campaign.

Because of insuperable difficulties, both geographical and strategic, the Allies have given up plans to capture Trondheim from the south, and Prime Minister Chamberlain announced their whole force had been withdrawn from the Andalsnes area apparently without the loss of a man.

His face etched with lines of anxiety and fatigue, Mr. Chamberlain, after proudly announcing the Royal navy's feats in the north had "altered the entire balance of naval power, disclosed a strong British and French battle fleet was steaming through the eastern basin of the Mediterranean toward Alexandria, where it can keep its eyes on Italy."

The exact military situation in Norway was obscure. It was clear from the prime minister's speech that the Allies still intend to block the German advance northward to the Kiruna ore deposits.

ward the vital ore port of Narvik, but where they plan to construct defensive lines was not certain at the moment.

Aviation sources assert that Britain unleashed the most sustained bombing raids of the war to cover the withdrawal in Norway. The raids were to distract German air strength from the field of action.

Squadron after squadron of bombers dropped tons of explosives on German-held airfields at Stavanger, Oslo, and Aalborg in Denmark.

The attacks damaged landing fields and destroyed planes and started fires. It was said that the British raiders swooped down over Stavanger five times in 24 hours, while the outside bases of Oslo and Aalborg were attacked two nights in succession.

Northern Norway still is under Allied control and a line probably will be drawn across the country to the Swedish frontier. This would permit mopping up operations in the Narvik area, where isolated German units still are fighting, and could serve also as a base for an excursion into Sweden if Germany attacks that country or attempts to annex the Kiruna ore deposits.

REYNOLD TALKS TO FRENCH SENATE

French Premier Paul Reynaud is shown addressing the French Senate in Paris. In a report to that body, Reynaud declared the Allies had "won the first great battle with Germany," and had sunk or damaged about one-third of the Reich fleet off Norway's coast.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Deputy Minister for Air Gave Inspiring Address to Canadian Weekly Newspaper Executive

A visit to Ottawa gives a more vivid impression that Canada is at war than is experienced by people living further inland on the prairies. Uniforms of the air force, the artillery, infantry of the line, and an occasional sailor abound; veterans of the last war, as belted by the ribbons on their tunics, and young men starting on their first real adventure, in this grim business of war of totalitarianism versus democracy. They are seen on every train, east and west, some going down to eastern training camps, others coming west to train recruits at the various centres that are being established for the duration.

That the air force is playing a very important part in Canada's war effort is plainly evident by the number of men in the natty blue uniform now so familiar.

The British Commonwealth Air Training Plan is a joint effort by Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Canada to set up in this Dominion facilities to train, in the advanced stages, and in the most economic and efficient manner, the personnel of their respective air forces in order to fit them to take up service overseas in defence of our common heritage of freedom and democracy.

It will provide our Empire with an ever increasing flow of highly trained pilots, air observers, and air gunners, trained under conditions well removed from the interruptions and difficulties inherent to present war conditions in the mother country or on the continent of Europe. Over 40,000 officers, airmen and civilians will be required to man the various schools, equipment depots, repair depots and other units.

It was the writer's privilege to hear an address by James S. Duncan, acting deputy minister of national defence for Air Services, to the executive of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at the Chateau Laurier last Friday, and also the honor of being seated next to Honorary Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., A.F.C., D.F.C., etc., at which some idea of the magnitude of the task in which the Empire and Canada is involved, was vividly impressed.

High ranking officers of the Royal Air Force of Great Britain and New Zealand were present to hear the address, and they will form part of the personnel under the training scheme. Among the principal units which go to make up the scheme will be four training commands situated respectively at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Regina. Other details of the training plan were given by Mr. Duncan, in his first public address since taking office about four weeks ago, and he paid a fine tribute to Canada's airmen and to Air Marshal Bishop, in the following words:

"When at Camp Borden a couple of weeks ago I had the privilege of sitting beside that legendary figure, Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., D.S.O. with bar, M.C., D.F.C., Chevalier de Legion d'Honneur, Croix de Guerre with Palm, etc., and thought to myself: Thank God that this man who fought in 130 air fights in the last war and has 72 enemy planes to his official credit should have been spared to be with us in this present struggle, to inspire us with his example, and to point the way towards those heights of heroism of which a grateful nation is so rightly proud!"

"Most people are inclined to think that bygone days were better ones and that the deeds of valor performed in the past will not be equalled again. I do not share this viewpoint. I believe, on the contrary, that the young manhood of Canada today is in every way equal, and in some respects superior, in their training at least, to those who went overseas in the World War of 1914-18.

"There will be other Bishops, other Barkers and other Collinshaws among them, others whose names will become famous the world over; others, who in fighting for the preservation of things which are nearest and dearest to us, will earn the eternal gratitude of the people of this country.

Officers at the luncheon addressed by Mr. Duncan included: Mr. Harry Scott, Sec. Supervisor, Board; Air Marshal G. M. Croft, Chief of the Air Staff; Hon. Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., A.F.C., D.F.C., etc.; Air Vice Marshal L. D. D. McKean, O.B.E.; Liaison Officer in Chief; United Kingdom Air Mission; Group Captain L. M. Isitt, New Zealand Representative, B.C.A.T.P.; Group Captain H. Edwards, Air Member for Personnel; Flying Officer Fergus Grant, Air Press Liaison Officer; Major Thos. Waying, Chief Press Liaison Officer, Dept. National Defence.

Finance Minister Hon. J. L. Ralston and Graham F. Towers Tell of Financing Problems

Weekly Newspapersmen Given a Glimpse of the News Behind the News

By long odds the highlight of the meeting of officers and directors at Ottawa was the recognition by the government of the importance, influence and fundamental community usefulness of Canada's weekly newspapers, and of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association itself as the representative body and the spokesman. During our deliberation in the nation's capital the directors of the C.W.N.A. were the dinner guests of Graham F. Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada. Nobody there was there can ever forget that occasion. We were addressed by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of Finance, Mr. Towers, and by Hector McKinnon, chairman of the War Supply Board and of the War Prices and Trade Board. Mr. McKinnon's speech was gracefully felicitous and was much enjoyed. Messrs. Ralston and Towers, however, took down their back hair, talked completely "off the record", told us with astounding frankness the inside story of Canada's war effort on the dollar front, and gave us so much confidential information, fearlessly, that we were made more than ever before conscious of the power, the dignity and the place of the country newspaper in a free democracy. It was a high compliment to our profession and to our organization. It was a demonstration of extraordinary confidence and it will not be abused.

So we are not going to tell you what these high officers of the financial front of Canada's war effort said to us—but we can tell you without quoting anybody, some of the things we now know.

Colonel Ralston and his aides, seven days and nights a week, are steadfastly toiling away to make sure that Canada acquires herself nobly and ably in this war. The picture of men giving themselves to the service of this country without stint, enslaved and worn by the tremendous effort of the task, patriotically striving to determine and raise the costs and to convert affairs so that there shall be economic stability after the war, is most inspiring. We paint that picture to our readers, regardless of politics, in all good conscience. Our peep behind the scenes enables us to say without reserve that Canada's wartime financial administration is in good sound, safe, able and patriotic hands. One thing that Colonel Ralston did, which raised us to the heights, was to expand upon just what "freedom" means. The right of every citizen to a voice in government; the right of free peoples to govern themselves and live their daily lives without regimentation was taken apart in most moving words and shown to us as a priceless thing—the thing that inspires men to offer their lives, and the Ralstons to offer their very health, for its preservation.

Soon we are to be offered war savings certificates—a means of wartime thrift which all of us, even the children, can participate in. And if anybody does not realize that thrift is in itself an essential of this war, that ordinary economy and everyday saving is war service of the most effective kind, he had better settle down to a serious acceptance of that fact.

The idea is that anybody who before the war lived on a reasonable standard or above the comfortable subsistence level, should be careful not to let any higher income which arises from war cause any person to squander the increase on more luxuries or on a higher standard of living. Why? The country needs the money, either in taxes or in borrowings to pay the costs of war from day to day. This does not mean that business should halt. It does not mean that anybody's standard of living should be reduced. It means that nobody's standard of living—except those on relief or below the subsistence line—should be increased. Millions of people, living on a normal scale, can raise a staggering problem if they all suddenly start living on an abnormal scale and buying abnormally. If they do so, they simply prevent the national machinery from giving its utmost to the most vital of all purposes—the war for our freedom and our very existence.

Never have people had this simple but badly set of facts put before them as forcefully, frankly and ably as we have heard it from Col. Ralston and Graham Towers. One thing they did not say—so we can say it ourselves, namely, that Canada's power for war can be materially strengthened if we all watch our buying and buy Canadian or British as far as possible. Even that, however, has its limits and must not be taken too literally, because if we get to the point of total employment with everybody at work as far as possible on war, the purchase of goods from outside might indeed help. It might save us from disrupting our concentration on war. But in general—though Messrs. Ralston and Towers did not say so—buying

POLISH IN NEW YORK TO PLANT 500 TREES

Albany, N.Y.—More than 500 memorial trees will be planted in the Empire State between May 3 and September 30 by various Polish schools, churches and community centres. The trees will be in memory of Poland's clergy, educators and civilians who were victims of German aggression according to Edward C. Rybicki, president of the State Conference of Polish clubs. Mr. Rybicki is co-operating in this tree planting with Rev. Felix P. Bunt, president of the United St. Stanislas societies of New York City.

The tree planting campaign, beginning on May 3, will mark the anniversary of the Polish Constitution and the September 30 date is the anniversary month of the invasion of Poland by the Germans and Russians.

"The trees will serve as marks of yearly observance by New York State Poles in memory of the Polish martyrs," Mr. Rybicki added.

These two Polish organizations sponsored "Poland Day" on February 11, which Gov. Herbert H. Lehman set aside by proclamation in memory of Polish martyrs and persecuted millions. New York State mayors also issued proclamations.—Christian Science Monitor.

IN THE DAYS OF
MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS

When Mary, Queen of Scots, was imprisoned in Tutbury Castle, Walsingham, in 1570, she furnished proof that beer was more than the drink of the commoner. She had her secretary enquire "at what place near Tutbury beer may be provided for Her Majesty's use" to which Sir Ralph Sadler, governor of the castle, replied: "Beer may be had at Burton three miles off."

THE EVILS OF CHISELLING
COMPETITION

Chiselling competition in a small town is often noticeable. For instance, recently an establishment was opened here and installed machinery at heavy expense, rented a local building and paid a business tax, besides employing people who make their home here. A competitive house, having no local taxes to meet, gets a local man to act as agent to escape paying a business or traders' tax, and has the work, solicited by this local agent, sent to Calgary to be done. It is unfair competition of the worst kind and The Journal points out that if all business were done on this basis, all our groceries, meats, clothing, and all other things might be bought in any other place than Coleman. "Support Home Industry" is a fine slogan.

CONTINENTAL CURRENCY

The issuance of paper money by the Continental Congress of the United Colonies began in 1775, its purpose being to finance the war for Independence. However, as it had no metallic backing, it soon began to depreciate in value until, about 1871, one hundred dollars worth of this money was worth only one Spanish silver dollar. This was the origin of the saying: "Not worth a Continental."

In Alberta attempts were made to issue paper money which had no federal backing, with the result that it proved a "flop." Remember the Prosperity Certificate!

Here's one that's true from the interesting house organ of Provincial Paper Limited: "A lot of people who spout so profusely about capital and labor never did any labor when they could get out of it."

May we never feel want, nor want feeling.—Anon.

From behind the scenes we learned that in every conceivable aspect, war costs more—much more—than 25 years ago, and the Government has to find the money. There will be more taxes, and the only thing for lovers of free life to do is to grin and bear it, tighten the old belt, and get ready to pay and to sacrifice with a smile. Our governors have no easy task—we all must help them. We got enough insight to sympathize heartily with them and to extend to them our utmost co-operation—and to ask all our readers to do the same.

Graham Towers is a young man, 42 years old. He has a fine and extraordinary able mind for the financial problem, and a marked ability to tell about the intricacies in words of two syllables. He took foreign exchange control apart before our eyes and showed what makes it tick. Without it, we were enabled to see Canada's economy and her money markets, her stocks, bonds, securities and dollars, would have been utterly demoralized. And we were able to see also the machinery which enables Canada not only to finance her own war effort, great as it is, but also to finance Britain's war purchases in this country too, and conserve the monetary strength of the great mother of Free Nations, who fights for us all and at whose side Canada is fighting too.

At Ottawa we were accorded high privilege indeed, we were inspired; we exhort and we shall continue to exhort till the war is won, all our people to keep steadfast behind Canada's war effort, in economy, thrift, taxes, sacrifice and toil, to the very limit of our strength.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE ACQUISITION ORDER

IMPORTANT NOTICE

As announced by the Minister of Finance, the Foreign Exchange Acquisition Order, 1940, has been enacted by Order-in-Council under the authority of the War Measures Act.

Unless exempted by the Order, every resident of Canada who, on May 1st, 1940, has any foreign currency in his possession, ownership or control, whether in Canada or outside Canada, is required forthwith to sell such foreign currency to an Authorized Dealer (i.e. a branch of a chartered bank) for payment in Canadian dollars at the official buying rate of the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

"Foreign currency", for the purposes of the Order, means any currency (excluding coin) other than Canadian currency and includes bank notes, postal notes, money orders, cheques, travellers' cheques, prepaid letters of credit, bank drafts and other similar instruments payable in any currency other than Canadian currency, and also includes any amount in foreign currency of which a resident has a right to obtain payment by reason of a deposit, credit or balance of any kind at or with a bank, savings bank, trust company, loan company, stockbroker, investment dealer or other similar depository.

The Order does not require the sale of any foreign securities.

The Order does not affect any foreign currency, deposit or securities of any non-resident of Canada and for greater certainty the Order expressly declares that a non-resident visiting Canada for business or pleasure for a period or periods not exceeding six months in the year continues to be a non-resident for the purposes of the Order unless such person enters or has entered Canada with the intention of becoming a permanent resident.

No resident is required to sell any foreign currency if he satisfies the Foreign Exchange Control Board that he held such foreign currency on May 1st, 1940, solely as trustee or agent for a non-resident and that the non-resident's interest therein had not been acquired from a resident since September 15th, 1939, except in a manner approved by the Board.

Under certain conditions stipulated in Section 1 (b) of the Order, a resident who is not a Canadian citizen may be granted exemption, but only after application for exemption is approved by the Board.

No life insurance company incorporated in Canada is required by the Order to sell any foreign currency which it needs for the purpose of carrying on its business outside Canada.

Further particulars may be obtained from branches of chartered banks. Any resident who has any foreign currency in his possession, ownership or control on May 1st, 1940, regardless of amount, should consult his bank at once in order to ascertain the extent to which he is affected by the Order.

Making Home In Canada

German Refugee Says He Can Feel Really Free Now

"No one who has not lived under Hitler can understand the terror of the Nazi regime," said Walter Herbst, German, who arrived recently in Toronto, his new home.

He did not feel really free from Hitler until he arrived in Canada, and with reason. When he was an hour out of Amsterdam, flying to London, his plane turned back to make a fierce Nazi-British air duel.

With him were his 80-year-old father, a 70-year-old aunt, his wife, son and daughter. In Toronto he joined his brother, Frederick Herbst, who came with his wife and two daughters, Elizabeth and Ursula, a year ago.

The Herbsts were, until 1934, owners of a factory in Mannheim, employing 1,500. They left Germany in 1934 because they refused to believe that to be a German was to be a Nazi. Now they will work together in a small similar factory in Toronto, where they employ 10 Canadians and expect to employ many more in the future.

His brother feels he has been here long enough to express an opinion and says the thing that strikes him most is Canada's beauty.

"Your home life here is 100 times better than in Europe. There for instance, when people move they take the bathtub with them if they have one and all the fixtures."

Providing For Dependents

Experts See Demonstration

Device Enables Bombers To Find Targets Even In Fog

A device designed to make possible bombing raids under weather conditions which screen planes from both anti-aircraft fire and enemy pursuit pilots was demonstrated at Dayton, Ohio, before allied military experts.

Developed by William F. Lear, 38-year-old radio engineer, it is intended to enable planes flying completely "blind" to reach targets such as military airports, manufacturing areas and railroads, and drop bombs through clouds or fog.

Essentially, Lear's device is only a radio set with a pointer on a dial which shows from what direction radio signals are received, and a second indicator which is "tied" to the North Pole.

The second indicator, fastened to a miniature gyroscope—the same device used in some ocean liners to keep them from rolling in rough seas—will keep pointing in the same direction regardless of any turns an airplane makes.

This is the way it works: If the pilot of a bombing plane knows his direction, and distant from a target, all he needs to do is fly a given length of time at a known speed and signal his crew to release the bombs when his watch indicates he has arrived.

A navigation is still an imperfect art, however, and pilots get lost in a 100-mile flight. Lear demonstrated that the gyroscopic indicator, "tied" to the North Pole by setting it on any point of the compass, would provide an invisible pathway to a point in enemy territory singled out for attack.

As he took off, he turned the radio pointer on the same dial to a station in "friendly" territory. The objective was a known number of miles from the station. By manoeuvring the plane, he made the gyroscopic indicator come to rest on the target. As the plane passed over the radio station, the pointer swung around, creating, with the indicator, a straight line across the dial.

Flying "blind", he arrived at his objective only 2.3 seconds behind the schedule he had set.

"This is where we would pull the bomb release levers," he said. By enabling a plot to line up on an airport runway and indicating where he should start his descent, the device can be used for instrument landings. An airline pilot made a blind landing in a small cabin plane after only 10 minutes instruction.

The Canadian Dollar

Lower Exchange Value Is Of Assistance To Great Britain

Canada's lessened dollar value in the United States is part of this nation's contribution to the solvency of Great Britain, according to Graham F. Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada.

Expressing belief that present rates of exchange on Canadian money is desirable, Mr. Towers explains that it is essential that British pound be kept at a level as favorable as possible.

The position of the British pound, it appears, is influenced to a considerable degree by the position of the Canadian dollar, and if Canada were to insist that her dollar be regarded as on a par with the United States dollar the pound immediately would depreciate and become less valuable as a medium of exchange.

The present rate of exchange between United States and Canadian funds is about halfway the spread between the pound and the U.S. dollar, as compared with normal levels.

In addition to assisting in keeping up the value of the pound Canadian have other duties to perform in the present struggle, that of paying for their own war effort and finding dollars that will, for British purchases in Canada. Because of these facts our people must use restraint and learn to do without certain extras that might seem attractive. Luxury imports must be reduced and Canadians learn the art of sacrifice.

We, at home, will soon have a place for our money in the purchase of War Savings Certificates, which will be well within the reach of all. Purchasers of such certificates will be doing a double patriotic duty in helping Canada and Great Britain.

And Canadian dollars at home are worth one hundred cents—St. Catharines Standard.

Italy Profits By German Invasion Of Neutral Countries

Passengers on Italian ships flying between Genoa and New York coast chiefly of refugees. The mounting stream of these travelers from Italy is continually fed by her ally's invasion of neutral countries. Passage rates have been doubled and in most cases are paid in United States currency. Thus the Berlin-Rome Axis seems to be working out profitably for the southern partner. Hitler keeps Italian ships in business and provides foreign currency for Mussolini.—New York Times.

I Read---And Write---For You

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

Perhaps you have been curious regarding the number of aliens at present in Britain. The number of those actually interned is small—between 700 and 800. There are 8,000 who are forbidden to move beyond a five-mile radius of their homes, and who are required to report at intervals to the police. There are another group, numbering over 35,000, who are free of all restrictions and who are treated as considerably as if they were of British stock.

Despite the circumstance of war, many thousands of Chinese peasant and workers, both children and adults, are going to schools located in the ten free provinces of China. The aim of the Chinese government is to eradicate illiteracy by 1946.

Ten years ago illiteracy in China was estimated to be as high as 90 per cent. As against our alphabet of 26 letters, the Chinese must learn 1,000 characters. The subjects of study are elementary arithmetic, music, hygiene, geography and "common sense."

The case of the man who is 40 or more years old—giving very many men of good will great anxiety. On this continent several surveys have been made to ascertain the number of men of 40 or more in employment. In one survey it was found that of 2,500,000 employees only 33 per cent. of them were over 40. Another survey of 5,781 plants in Massachusetts showed that 250 plants had no employees over 45, and that in 767 plants fewer than 20 per

But Egyptian In Chicago Claims He Is 129 Years Old

In 1811 Napoleon was reaching the peak of his power in Europe and the first steamboat for the Ohio and Mississippi rivers was launched at Pittsburgh. That same year, Sayed Mehren was born at Cairo, Egypt, he told a woman census taker and said he could prove it. He hadn't lost the record of his birth in Alexandria more than 100 years ago.

A slight stoop to his five-foot frame, quivering eyes, a gray fringe around his bald pate and a few deep-set wrinkles in otherwise clear olive skin, he looks like a man between 75 and 80.

"It's nothing unusual that I should live to be 129," he said. "I knew a man in Egypt who was 200 years old."

"In Egypt we live better. We prayed five times a day, which is restful and helps rebuild body tissue. I don't drink. I don't smoke. I don't eat pork."

Mehren said he could recall faintly having heard of Napoleon as a contemporary when he was a small boy studying French and Latin in a Catholic school at Cairo. He had recollections—also faint—of being an assistant copyist to the chief clerk of a British expedition to the Sudan, which built a dam across the Nile. He said he could remember clearly the British bombarding Alexandria in 1880.

HABAKKUK FIGHTS THROUGH DOUBT TO FAITH

Golden Text: The righteous shall live by his faith. Habakkuk 2:4. Lesson: Habakkuk. Devotional reading: Habakkuk 3: 1-4; 17-19.

Explanations and Comments

Judah's Sin to be Punished by the Chaldeans, Habakkuk 1:1-11. Habakkuk begins his writing with a complaint to God about the prevailing violence, iniquity, strife, injustice in Judah. "How long shall I cry, and thou wilt not hear?" Then in answer the prophet sees that the Chaldeans (the Babylonians) are to be raised up in chastisement of Judah.

The Vision which Habakkuk Sees From His Watchtower. The Lord is in his temple, let all the earth keep silence before him. Habakkuk 2:20. Habakkuk declares he will stand upon the tower and look forth to see what answer he will receive and to write it plainly that all may know. The tower is not, of course, a literal tower—some high and lonely place to which the prophet may retire; it simply suggests the inner light of revelation, by the aid of which he contemplates the perplexing situation. The answer which he expects is given, and he is instructed to write it down on tablets, because it is of permanent interest. He writes it plainly that any one might be able to recall it fluently—run in his reading, read it, and experience it. Through it, wait for it; because it will surely come. "A Vision" is something realized, something experienced, that will be as actual and present to the waiting prophet as the cruelly real and obvious. The vision is not some series of historical events in meant, by which, in the course of time, the unjust oppressor of the nation shall be overthrown and the righteous vindicated.

The answer comes to him in the promise of a "Vision," whose time of coming is fixed by God, though it seems to linger. Through it, wait for it; because it will surely come. "A Vision" is something realized, something experienced, that will be as actual and present to the waiting prophet as the cruelly real and obvious. The vision is not some series of historical events in meant, by which, in the course of time, the unjust oppressor of the nation shall be overthrown and the righteous vindicated.

Gardening

Secret Of Transplanting

Secret of successful transplanting is plenty of water of next importance will be shade and stimulant. Moving a plant is something like an operation. It is a being, and the larger the specimen the more necessary the attention. With shrubbery and trees, the shock is severe. Half a pint of water after setting out is not too much for such big things, and the water should be changed every three times a week. If a quick start is wanted.

With ordinary annuals and perennials liberal watering is also advisable and shelter from hot sun for the first few days. Some pickup in gain with small things like tomato plants or asters, and perhaps up to a couple of handfuls for shrubs and trees.

Informal Layouts

In the average case planting irregularly in clumps will produce the most pleasing garden effects. Such planting is usually done in a series of spacings, giving even tiny backyard gardens the appearance of much larger ones.

Where possible there should be a lawn in the foreground, with an irregularly shaped bed of flowers around the edges and possibly groups of shrubs at the corners. Screening of harsh straight lines about the flower beds with clump of flowers and shrubs and an occasional trailing vine over verandas or garages will bring the whole thing together.

Extending Season

Canada's gardening season can be lengthened by considerably by started plants and spreading sowing operations over several weeks. This is especially desirable with vegetables. One third of the seed can be sown at the earliest possible date and one third two to three weeks later than usual. A still longer season can be secured by also using an early medium and late variety of all vegetables wanted.

Likely To Affect Imports

Invasion Of Norway May Stop Shipments Of Sardines To Canada

The German invasion of Norway came as another surprise in the war and it may have an effect on Canadian imports of Norwegian sardines. It is too early yet to judge what the future will be, says Canadian Grocer. Most of the sardines come from Stavanger, which is some 300 miles away from Bergen where the Germans are active at time of writing, so that there is the possibility that shipments may be continued as happened in the war of 1914-1918. Time alone will tell.

Eighty per cent. of students graduating in engineering from Ontario universities this summer have positions to go to at once, Col. R. E. Johnston, director of the Technical Service Council said. Many of them will take commissions in technical branches of the Canadian Active Service Force.

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA

TOPICS VITAL INTEREST
by DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH

SWAT THE FLY

This is the time for each household in Canada to lay plans for its own annual private war, in which the nation's "Swat the Fly," the Health League of Canada advised today.

One reason for the success with which the pestiferous insect resists attacks upon him is his habit of taking up the fight each year without warning and before he is expected.

A good way to wreck his plans at this time is to spring clean the yard, and every other outlying portion of the home, as vigorously and thoroughly as the housewife cleans the interior. Garbage cans might be given a wash with strong disinfectant, with advantage to the household involved. No rubbish or garbage should be allowed to collect, and where manure is used for preparing the garden it should be dug away as soon as possible. Don't forget that the female fly lays her eggs in rubbish and refuse; that the grubs hatch out in a few days and shortly afterward burrow into the earth to undergo their metamorphosis. Don't give them any encouragement or help in this.

Many people still look on the fly as only a mild nuisance, chiefly annoying by his habits of buzzing and tickling. Those little things are nothing! If one had microscopical eyes, capable of seeing the disease germs which this enemy of mankind picks up, carries around and distributes during a single day, he would take a different view of the enemy.

It may be permitted to mention only one of the fly's obnoxious manners: When you see him tramping around in the sugar bowl, he is not just nibbling the grains of sugar. He can't nibble; so he regurgitates a drop of fluid from his tummy to melt the sugar, then he can suck it up. Not nice, is it?

The sooner you put up fly screens and get ready with the swatter, the better will be your chance of having a home free from flies.

Like To Be Feared

Nazi Leaders Do Not Want Friendship Of The People

In this part of the world, one realizes that "German propaganda is wholly based on fear. The Nazis do not care whether people love or admire them, or whether they are called gangsters. They believe fear more potent than idealism. They don't mind being hated, provided hatred is accompanied by terror and frustration. There is a kind of hypnotic power about the terror. Just before we left Italy the Nazis showed a film, "Baptism of Fire," to a select group of invited guests, mostly Italian journalists. It was a picture of the conquest of Poland shown in the crudest and most ruthless detail. The guests who were there reported that there was almost no applause. Onlookers sat pale and quiet. But the film created precisely the effect intended. It conveyed the idea, "This is what happens to any who oppose us."—Dorothy Thompson.

Read In Reverse

An American pressman arranged with his monthly paper to send his reports from Germany in blue ink if true, and red ink if false. The first, written in blue ink, ran as follows: "No grumbling; unity everywhere; conviction of victory. Food is plentiful; so are raw materials; red ink is the only commodity unobtainable."

Fingerprints for identifying criminals can now be sent by wire from one police department to another.

Through the Window

"You mustn't go, you'll be killed!" she gasped, and he laughed at her, not ill pleased, for the risk was virtually nil.

"I've got a pretty high regard for me," he said, and in another instant he had swung clear and gripped the lower sash of the second window and had pulled himself into the room.

He could see nothing except the rim outlines of three trunks stacked one on top of the other. He switched on the light and turned to survey the confusion. Old boxes and trunks which, he guessed, had been piled in some order, were dragged into the centre of the room to allow the free operation of the vanished burglar. Recessed into the wall, there appeared, now a safe, the door of which was open. On the floor beneath was a rough circle of metal burned from the door—it was still hot when he touched it—by the small hydrogen blow-lamp that the burglar had left behind him.

He unlocked the door of the room and admitted Elk and the girl.

Released on Wednesday

"That's good work," said Elk, whose detached admiration for the genius of law-breakers was at least sincere. "Safe's empty? Not so much as a cigarette cart left behind. Good work! Toby Haggitt or Lew Yakobi—they're the only two men in London that could have done it."

The girl was gazing wide-eyed at the "good work." She was very pale. Jim noticed, and mirrored the two.

"What was in the safe?" he asked.

She shook her head.

"I don't know—I didn't even know there was a safe in the room. He will be terrible about this!"

Carlton knew the "he" was the absent Ingie.

"He won't know for some time, anyway—" he began, but she broke in upon his reassurance.

"Next week," she said; "he is being released on Wednesday."

Elk scratched his chin thoughtfully.

"Somebody knew that," he said; "he hadn't a partner, either."

Arthur Ingie was indeed a solitary worker. His frauds had been unsuspected even by such friends as he had in his acting days—for they had covered a period of the twenty years before his arrest and conviction.

tion. To the members of his company he was known as a bad paymaster and an unscrupulous manager; none imagined that this clever player of character parts was "Lobber & Syne, Manufacturing Jewellers, of Clerkenwell," and other aliases that produced him such golden harvests.

"It was no fault of yours," said Jim Carlton, and she submitted to a gentle pat on the shoulder. "There's no sense in worrying about it."

Elk was examining the lamp under the electric light.

"Bet it's Toby," he said, and walked to the window. "That's his graft. He'd make a cat burglar look like a wool-eatin' kitten! Paraphrases are like the Great West Road to Toby—a dead stop to manœuvre his nails on three inches of rotten sandstone."

The identity of the burglar worried Jim less than it did the girl. He had the brain of a lightning calculator. A hundred aspects of the crime, a hundred possibilities and explanations flickered through his mind, and none completely satisfied him.

An Unearthly Power

Unless . . .

The Splendid Harlow was on the way to having an obsession. There was no immense sum of money to be made from discovering the secrets of a convicted swindler. That there was money in the safe he did not for one moment believe. Ingie was not the type of criminal which hides its wealth in safes. He credited him with a dozen banking accounts in fictitious names and each holding money on deposit.

They went back into the paneled dining room. The apartment interested Jim, for here was every evidence of luxury and refinement. The flat must have cost thousands of pounds to furnish. And then he remembered that Arthur Ingie had only been convicted on three charges.

Evidence in a number of others, which must have produced enormous profits, was either missing or of too shaky a character to produce. This apartment represented coupe successful than those for which Arthur Ingie had been convicted.

"Do you know your uncle very well?"

She shook her head.

"I knew him better many years ago," she said, but he was an actor, before he—well, before he got rich! I am his only living relation."

Somebody had knocked at the outer door.

"I may be the charwoman," she said, and went out on the passage and pulled open the door.

A man was standing on the mat outside, tall, commanding, magnificent in his well-cut evening kit and his graceful, if old-fashioned, Inverness cape. His snowy linen blazed and twinkled with diamonds; the buttons on his white waistcoat were aglitter.

It was part and parcel with the primitive in the man, so that she saw nothing vulgar in the display. But something within her shrank under his pale gaze. She had a strange and inexplicable sensation of being in the presence of a power beyond earthly control. She was crushed by the sense of his immense superiority. So she might have felt had she found herself confronted by a tiger.

"My name is Harlow—we met on Dartmoor," he said, and showed a line of even teeth in a smile. "May I come in?"

She could not speak in her astonishment, but somebody answered for her.

"Come in, Harlow," drawled Jim Carlton's voice. "I'd love to have your first impression of Dartmoor; it is really as snappy as people think?"

The Great Harlow

Mr. Harlow's attitude toward this impertinent man struck the girl as remarkable. It was mild, almost benevolent; he seemed to regard James Carlton as a good joke. And he was the great Harlow! She had learned that at Princeton.

You could not work in the City without hearing of Harlow, his coups and successes. Important bankers spoke of him with bated breath. His money was too liquid for safety; it flowed here and there in floods that were more often than not destructive.

Sometimes it would disappear into subterranean caverns, only to gush forth in greater and more devastating volume to cut new channels through old cultivations and presently to recede, leaving havoc and ruin behind.

And, of course, she had heard of the police station. When Mr. Harlow interested himself in the public weal he did so thoroughly and unconvictionally. His letters to the press on the subject of penology were the best of their kind that have appeared in print. He pestered ministers and commissioners with his plans for a model police station, and when his enthusiasm was rebuffed he did what no philanthropist, however public-minded, has ever done before. He bought a freehold plot in Every street (which is not a stone's throw from Park Lane), built his model police headquarters at the cost of £100,000, and presented the building to the police commissioners. It was a model police office in every respect. The men's quarters above the station were the finest of their kind in the world. Even the cells of the quality of comfort, though they contained the regulations published. This gift was a nine days' wonder. Topical revues had their jokes about it; the cartoonists hung their jibes at the Government upon the happening.

The city had ceased to think of him as eccentric. They called him "sharp," and contrasted him unfavorably with his father. They were a little afraid of him. His money was too fluid for stability.

He nodded smilingly to Jim Carlton, fixed the unhappy Elk with a glance, and then—

"I did not know that you and my friend Carlton were acquainted." And then, in a changed tone: "I hope I am not too late?"

His voice, his attitude said as plainly as words could express: "I presume this is a police visitation due to the notorious character of your uncle?"

Spare-Time Work

The girl thought this. Jim knew what was coming before his eyes altered.

"There has been a burglary here and Miss Rivers called us in," he said.

Harlow murmured his regrets and sympathy.

"I congratulate you upon having secured the shrewdest officer in the police force." He addressed the girl blandly. "And I congratulate the police force"—and looked at Jim—"upon detaching you from the Foreign Office—if you were wasted there, Mr. Carlton, if I may be so impertinent as to express an opinion."

"I am still in the Foreign Office," said Jim. "This is spare-time work. Even policemen are entitled to their amusements. And how did you like Dartmoor?"

The Splendid Harlow smiled sadly. "Very impressive, very tragic," he said. "I am referring of course to Princeton, where I spent a couple of nights."

Alleen was waiting to hear the real reason for the call; even though her distress and foreboding she was curious to learn what whim had brought this super-magnate to the home of a convict.

He looked slowly from her to the men, and again Jim interpreted his wishes; with a glance at Elk they walked into the lumber room.

"It occurred to me," said Mr. Harlow, "that I might be in a position to afford you some little help. My name may not be wholly unknown to you; I am Mr. Stratford Harlow." She nodded.

"I knew that," she said.

"They told you at the Duchy, did they?" It seemed that he was relieved that she had identified him.

Outlook Is Improved

Few Areas Where Grasshoppers Will Be Menace This Year

The only area where severe infestation of grasshoppers is expected in Saskatchewan this year is in the southwest corner, south of the Cypress Hills. K. M. King, Dominion entomologist, indicated this in a recent release, adding that the infested area includes part of Alberta and Montana.

Eggs were laid in this area after a large migration of grasshoppers from vacant lands in Montana during last summer, Mr. King reported. Over most of the border states, however, the "hoppers" were kept fairly well under control.

Cannot Stand Publicity

All Dictatorships Thrive In Shadow But Die In The Light

All dictatorships are born in the dark. They survive for a time in the shadow. They invariably die in the light. The one thing tyranny cannot stand is publicity. It must gag the press, stop free expression, silence the pulpit, censor the radio, control the movies, propagandize the public with half-truths—which is the shadiest way of lying there is.

The real bulwark of democracy is not the ballot box but the honest newspaper—Michigan Christian Advocate.

A Story From London

Concerns Little Old Lady And Her Savings At A Lifetime

With a string-tied brown-paper parcel balanced on her knees, a little old English lady propelled her wheel chair through Birmingham streets.

Few people gave a second thought to the frail figure or to her parcel. They would have been more interested had they known that the brown paper covered a small fortune.

The little old lady stopped outside a bank, climbed slowly and painfully from her chair, and hobbled to the cashier's counter.

Under the expectant gaze of that official, she untied her parcel and emptied on to the counter a bundle of notes, some of them so old that they crumbled as they fell.

She said they represented her life savings, and she wanted to put them in a safer place than the cupboard in which she had kept them.

The cashier gently explained that he could not accept notes in such a condition and advised her to go to the Bank of England branch office.

Parcelling up the notes, she left the bank and old went the wheel chair again.

At the branch office the surprised cashier was able to count up to £150 (about $700), but there were so many pieces of old notes left unchecked that the teller's sum must have been considerably more.

There were tears in the woman's eyes as she saw so much of her savings in pieces, but she was comforted by the promise that she would be paid by the bank.

The bank sent off the notes to a special department, where experts will piece together the scraps.

When this valuable jigsaw puzzle has been worked out, the little old lady will be able to draw her savings in brand-new notes whenever she likes.

Going East This Fall?

Then You Will Want To Visit The Canadian National Exhibition

With our money spent in the U.S.A. being discounted from 15 to 30 per cent, surely your slogan should be "We'll see Canada First!"

And if you do decide to come East we may not make it about the time the Canadian National Exhibition is on at Toronto—it's the world's largest and most interesting exhibition and despite the fact that the buildings have been used as soldiers' barracks this winter the authorities start packing away all this equipment about the 24th of May when the military go to summer camps.

Naturally you'll have a different display to look at than in past years. Some countries will be "out of the picture" but it is believed that South America and the Central American Republics will come in and show something entirely new in their displays in an endeavour to increase trade with Canadians.

If rumours are true, you'll not have any more opportunities after this year, to see the Dione Quin of the year, the five perfect children of Canada, Ontario. Of course, you'll have to go up there for the visit, but buses and trains run frequently—and there's no admission charge.

Money is more valuable to Canadians this year, when spent in Canada, than at any long time past.

See Canada first—buy Canadian or British—and make every dollar of your money help your own people and your own country!

Invasion Of Canada

Might Be Possible If Russia Entered The War

Dr. G. A. MacDonald of Knox United church, Edmonton, said in an interview at Toronto that invasion of Canada by the Mackenzie river basin might be a very definite possibility if Soviet Russia became involved in the war.

"The Mackenzie river itself might prove a very dagger into the heart of the country," Dr. MacDonald said. "Artic flying has been greatly simplified in the last few years and there is no doubt we would be faced with a very serious problem if Russia became involved."

The Mackenzie river, which empties into the Arctic ocean, provides northern pilots with an easily followed trail through the Northwest Territories to the northern limits of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Remarkable Escape

British Submarine Returns To Home Base After Striking A Mine

The naval correspondent of the Daily Herald, revealed that Lieut. Commander John W. McCoy brought home the submarine Triumph, sister ship of the Triton and the Triton, in a nightmare crawl after 14½ feet of her bow had been blown off by a mine.

Lieut. Commander McCoy has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order, "for outstanding initiative, skill and resource when a mine struck his ship."

The naval correspondent wrote: "I saw the Triumph come slowly alongside her mother ship several days overdue. She had been out on a particularly dangerous mission. As she began the voyage home her captain saw less than 30 feet away a floating mine."

"There was no chance to avoid it. A bump and explosion. The bow of the Triumph went up in the air. But the watertight doors behind the forward torpedo tubes were shut."

"There was only one 'casualty.' A seaman was slicing a loaf of bread when the explosion came. The knife slipped. He cut his finger."

Be Pleased on Dress, Etiquette

The loveliest of weddings for you and your betrothed! But, first, so many details to be settled—of attire, etiquette.

Your dress should suit the style of your wedding—formal or informal, as well as the hour.

At a traditional formal day-time affair, the bride sweeps down the aisle in trailing white gown and veil. The groom wears a cutaway and striped trousers. After six, evening attire! The bride's dress is the same as for a formal afternoon wedding, but the groom dons white tie, tails.

Or, fashionable these days to be married informally at noon—the bride in a smart suit and hat, the groom in business clothes.

Informally after six, you wear a dinner dress and tiny hat or a simple white gown and short veil. The groom wears dinner clothes.

How many attendants? As many as you like at a formal wedding. One or two for the bride at an informal affair.

Where should the bridesmaids stand during the ceremony? Who is to be the best man at the reception? These and all your wedding questions are answered in our 32-page booklet, "Gives etiquette for the ceremony and reception, correct attire for bridal party, guests. Of course, we mean as a meal time beverage for the family.

Your grocer has many customers who seldom or never drink tea and coffee—for these he has the famous Postum, which is most delicious and is the beverage for people who suffer from nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness, caused by caffeine.

In their new advertising Postum illustrates this point with a trade character called Mr. Caffeine-Nerves.

Especially for mothers who won't let their children take strong brews as Postum. Postum, Valuable because the youngsters get tired of milk and such like but they get a well balanced and healthful hot drink when using Postum—especially when used with evaporated milk and brown sugar for sweetening—at least that's the way I like it and I can take it at any time without harm.

The wise grocer will see that his stock of Postum is kept up and that he mentions it to all his customers.

Scene Of Feudal Battles

Norse Kings Fought Where Allies And Nazis Now Meet

British and German troops, in their contest for Norway, are fighting over ground rich in the centuries-old ruins of ancient Norse kings and their feudal battles.

Stiklestad, 12 miles north of Steinkjer, is the scene of a monument recalling the battle of July 19, 1030, in which Alf II, Haraldsson met his death.

Olaf II, called "the Fat" in his lifetime but known as St. Olaf afterwards—was the son of Alf I, Trygvason who was a slave in Estonia but who enforced Christianity upon Norway and fought to unite the country under his rule.

The Norwegian warship Olaf Trygvason, which opposed the German naval attack on Oslo, was named for him.

Alf II, after years of fighting the Danes in England, returned to Norway in 1016 and defeating Earl Sveyn, soon had more power than any of his predecessors.

He enforced Christianity throughout the kingdom, asserted his rule over the Orkney Islands, humbled Sweden, and raided Denmark. But his nobles revolted and joined with the invading Knut the Great of Denmark. It was in this war that he fell at Stiklestad.

After his death, miracles were reported from his tomb and he was canonized in 1164 and declared the patron saint of Norway. The Norwegian Order of Knighthood of St. Olaf was founded in his honor in 1847. His name came to stand for Norwegian unity and independence.
